Anna Kruhelska

Born in Poland in 1981

She is a visual artist and practising architect based in Lodz, Poland

Her architectural career encompasses numerous significant projects in Russia, Malaysia, and the UK. This experience has profoundly influenced her understanding of form, symmetry, and space, providing her with critical insights that have been essential in developing a cohesive and innovative art practice.

Her artistic efforts are distinguished by abstract, three-dimensional plywood wall reliefs that manipulate light to produce varying visual effects, depending on the viewer's perspective. The core of Kruhelska's art explores the interplay between light and shadow, contrast, and the patterns that emerge from the creases and indentations of her work.
